

Dear Neighbor,

For the last couple of months, I have been walking through the neighborhoods of Framingham. Maybe you've seen me as I've knocked on close to 2000 doors. I've also made hundreds of phone calls to talk to voters one on one. I've attended every public meeting or event I can squeeze in. This work has reaffirmed my love for the town and my belief that Framingham is an extraordinary place to live.

As I talk to people, the question I get most often is: "Why should we vote for you instead of the incumbent?" This is a fair question. People want to know how I differ from Pam Richardson.

People who know me will tell you that I'm an attorney who is liberal on social justice issues, and I have an equally strong record of fiscal prudence when it comes to spending taxpayer money. I'm the kind of Town Meeting member who does her own homework, speaks her own mind, and works hard for the town of Framingham.

Like my local political heroes, former Framingham State Reps. Barbara Gray and Debby Blumer, I have a history of being a strong advocate for education and the environment, especially in the area of alternative energy. I've also stood up for minorities, seniors, disabled folks, and other people who have no one to speak to their issues.

In these challenging times, Framingham needs strong leaders to work at the State House for what is best for the town. Voters also deserve leaders who are vocal and present in the community and transparent about their thinking.

I promise you that no one will work harder and no one will be more accessible. I'll be an independent voice who will not just go along with State House insider leadership if it is not in the best interests of the town or the State. I will work full time for Framingham, and I ask for your support in the Democratic Primary on Tuesday, September 16th.

Dear Neighbor,

For the last couple of months, I have been walking through the neighborhoods of Framingham. Maybe you've seen me as I've knocked on close to 2000 doors. I've also made hundreds of phone calls to talk to voters one on one. I've attended every public meeting or event I can squeeze in. This work has reaffirmed my love for the town and my belief that Framingham is an extraordinary place to live.

As I talk to people, the question I get most often is: "Why should we vote for you instead of the incumbent?" This is a fair question. People want to know how I differ from Pam Richardson.

People who know me will tell you that I'm an attorney who is liberal on social justice issues, and I have an equally strong record of fiscal prudence when it comes to spending taxpayer money. I'm the kind of Town Meeting member who does her own homework, speaks her own mind, and works hard for the town of Framingham.

Like my local political heroes, former Framingham State Reps. Barbara Gray and Debby Blumer, I have a history of being a strong advocate for education and the environment, especially in the area of alternative energy. I've also stood up for minorities, seniors, disabled folks, and other people who have no one to speak to their issues.

In these challenging times, Framingham needs strong leaders to work at the State House for what is best for the town. Voters also deserve leaders who are vocal and present in the community and transparent about their thinking.

I promise you that no one will work harder and no one will be more accessible. I'll be an independent voice who will not just go along with State House insider leadership if it is not in the best interests of the town or the State. I will work full time for Framingham, and I ask for your support in the Democratic Primary on Tuesday, September 16th.

